

After meeting with Dr. Myers, I am convinced that I have been deeply blessed to become one of his patients. What a positive person. The depth of knowledge that he represents from a most impressive career is beyond anything I have experienced with other doctors.

During my consultation (my wife and me) I asked the question of how much time is spent reading medical literature. Dr. Myers responded saying that he starts his day at 7:00 and doesn't leave until 8:00 most evening. He spends four or more hours a day reading medical literature and up to eight hours on weekends. He went on to say that his wife tells him that he is compulsive in his passion of reading and absorbing medical literature. I am not aware of any of my doctors who spend that much time studying medical literature. He also mentioned that he thoroughly enjoys being his own boss and his practice.

He mentioned that he has a photographic memory and he can reference, in his mind, much of what he has consumed from all of his reading. He is truly amazing.

During my visit I was able to ask about everything that you assigned me to do

Wellness Community Video presentation:

Dr. Myers has adopted a fully electronic office. Every aspect of his office is completely up to date using the latest electronic technology. He is open to doing a video conference in the spring. There are two ways this can be done. One is for us to provide a list of questions and he will provide the video answers. The second option, and I believe the most effective, is to have an interactive discussion via Skype. His daughter is the one to work with to set the whole thing up (Jessica Myers-Schechter jessica@prostateforum.com). Jessica and her husband are part of the electronic world living in Silicon Valley California. Jessica is the one who sets up all of the videos sent by Dr. Myers as well as distributing news through the Prostate Forum.

One final point. Dr. Myers expressed that each type of cancer is totally unique. He feels that the myth present in the medical community, when dealing with cancer, is treating cancer as if it were the same for all types of cancer. What is good for one type of cancer may not be of value for another type. For example there is a huge difference between breast cancer and prostate cancer. One of the most common myths is that cancer thrives on sugars. However with prostate cancer, sugar is an aid not a deterrent (again my understanding of what was presented).

My appointment with Dr. Myers was over two hours in time. I was very impressed with his complete staff and the professionalism exhibited. Nothing like most doctors offices I have recently visited where I appear to be just another dollar walking through the door with no personal interest. I had the feeling that every patient is vitally important to Dr. Myers and his entire staff. Most impressive.

Though the charge seemed large at the time, I came away thinking that the knowledge obtained was so beneficial that it would have taken me years to learn what was taught to me during the visit. I have the impression that I gained a very positive direction based on his very thorough and extensive knowledge and the manner in which he is able to present information. I knew, from our discussion, that his suggestions and recommendations were specific to me (I am an insulin dependent diabetic).

During my entire visit I felt that I had his full and complete attention.
